IN NEIGHBORING COUNTIES.

John F. Garrett, aged 29 years, died at Nicholasville after a prolonged illness of heart and lung trouble.

Tessie Poultier, five-year-old girl in Mercer county, died of hydrophobia, the result of a dog bite sustained seven months ago.

Mayor Grainger, of Louisville, has given away 15,000 bushels of the 20,000 bushels of coal which the general council authorized him to distribute among the poor.

Willie Cooper, a 17-year-old boy from Fulton, pleaded guilty to a charge of robbing the postoffice at that town, and was sentenced to two years at a reformatory by Judge Evans.

James Garrett, his wife and daughter have been placed in jail at Whitesburg pending an investigation of the death of his uncle, Jason Craft, who died several days ago from scalds.

Deputy United States Marshal James A. Horine shot and wounded J. B. Smith in the hall of the court house at Pineville. The trouble between them originated over the arrest of Berry Howard.

At Harrodsburg the city council consummated the purchase of the residence property at the head of Main street, of Smith Bowman, of Lexington, and will erect thereon a handsome city hall and engine house.

Thomas Sallee, who left Mercer county and located in Texas, was shot and killed there by his father-in-law. A message to his relatives, telling of the crime, states that Sallee eloped with one daughter and then assisted his nephew in eloping with another, the act exasperating the father-in-law, who shot Sallee dead.

"I am relying for justice on the One above," said George Stone at Chicago, who is on trial for murder, and then with tears streaming down his cheeks he dropped on his knees, bowed his head and prayed for five minutes. When he ended his appeal he resumed his seat with his head in his hands and cried.

At a crossing in Newbern, N. J., a fast express train on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad, crashed through a trolley car loaded with school children. Eight of the children were killed and about 20 persons injured, including the mortorman of the trolley car and the engineer of the express. The accident was due to the mortorman losing control of his car on a steep and slippery grade.

Escaped an Awful Fate.

Mr. H. Higgins, of Melbourne, Fla., writes, "My doctor told me I had Consumption and nothing could be done for me. I was given up to die. The offer of a free trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, induced me to try it. Results were startling. I am now on the road to recovery. It surely saved my life." This great cure is guaranteed for all throat and lung diseases by all Druggists. Price 50¢ and $1. Trial bottle free.

Andrew Carnegie has added $125,000 to the endowment fund of the Carnegie Laboratory of Engineering at Stevens Institute of Technology in New York. Three children of A. J. Ransom, of Scio, Ohio, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their home. Charles W. Fulton was elected U. S. Senator in Oregon.

ACCIDENTAL?

The jury returned a verdict of accidental death on the man who fell from the window ledge on which he had fallen asleep. But the death was really due to carelessness which made the accident possible.

There are a great many lives suddenly terminated as a result of carelessness, although the medical certificate may read "heart failure."

When a man takes chances with his stomach and neglects

the warning symptoms of disease, he is carelessly inviting calamity. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food, which makes strength. It stimulates the liver, cures biliousness, and removes bilious impurities from the blood.

"I had been troubled with a pain in lower part of my stomach for three years, so severe I thought it would kill me in time," writes Mr. Aaron Van Dam, of (Kensington) 2540, Ruth St., Chicago. "I could not eat, sleep, or do any thing but lay in bed in pain and was cured. I had a torpid liver which was troubling me instead of cramps (as I thought), so Dr. Pierce told me. I have pleasure in living now; have gained in weight 15 pounds since then."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They do not beget the pill habit.

ATLANTA, GA.

If some of the people were here back in the "fifties," when the town was known as Marthaville, or previous to that when it was called Terminus, and had not seen Atlanta since, should happen to be dropped down into the Gate City to-day, we are certain they would not know where "they are at." From a town of a few stores, a blacksmith shop and a dollar-a-day hotel then, it has grown to a magnificent city of over 125,000 inhabitants, with sky-scraping buildings and everything that is up-to-date. Before the civil war, Atlanta had gotten to be a town of no small importance, but she was literally wiped off the earth by that unpleasant episode and it took her some time after the war had closed to pick herself up and begin again to build. That she has built up and built well, can best be appreciated by a visit to the greatest southern city on the map.

Atlanta is always improving and the good work done in the year since I was last here is readily apparent. Business houses, that tower far toward the clouds, have been erected, handsome homes have been completed, while streets and pavements have been made over until they are well nigh perfect.

Another immense hotel, The Piedmont, Hoke Smith, a big stockholder, in it, has been added recently; the Peters building, eight stories high and covering an acre or so of valuable earth, has gone up; the Century building, 13 stories in height and with every modern appointment, has risen phoenix-like from where a little flat top brick stood a year ago, but the climax is yet to be reached, for foundation is being made for a 17-story steel frame sky scraper, which will be completed before 1903 is numbered with the years of the past. But enough about buildings. As Atlanta has improved in appearance, her good people have improved the city in morals, until the fact stands out that she is as good, if not better than the very best, and is so far ahead of other cities of her size, from a moral standpoint that she can truly be called Eclipse in the race.

Why Atlanta grows and flourishes as she does is an easy problem to solve. The reason is, every Atlantan pulls for his town and never loses an opportunity to say a good word or do a good deed for the capital city.

With over 500 factories in and around the city, Atlanta is almost independent of the outside world. For a long time cotton was shipped to the New England States and made into cloth and sent back, but a stop was put to that folly several years ago, when factories were put up that do the work as well, if not better, at home than abroad, and that the big freight bills are saved as well as employment given to thousands of worthy people at home.

Atlanta is the cleanest town in my knowledge. The streets always present a neat appearance, while the pavements are almost as clean as the parlor floor of a well kept country house. It is a heavy fine to expectorate on the pavements and the law against it is well preserved.

I am glad to tell our readers, who know him well, that my brother, Mr. Thomas R. Walton, is prospering in his adopted home and that his health is better than it has been for years. He is an Atlantan, body and soul, now and there are none who sing the city's praises louder than he. Mr. Walton is still in the grocery business at 228 Whitehall, where he would be glad to have his Kentucky friends call on him.

Atlanta is the home of coca-cola, the most popular soft drink made. The Coca Cola Co. has a $100,000 building on Edgewood Avenue, which has proven not large enough and it is to be increased almost double the present size at once.

The First Methodist Church of Atlanta was sold the other day for $100,000 and a sky-scraper will be built on its site. Property on Peachtree street has been secured for another church, which will be one of the finest houses of worship in the South. Rev. C. W. Byrd, formerly of Owensboro, has charge of the First Methodist flock.

In Kirkwood, a beautiful suburb of Atlanta, grand old Gen. John B. Gordon is spending his declining years.

He has a comfortable home of colonial style and there he is rounding up his useful life. Gen. Gordon is dear to every southerner, while Atlantians almost worship the gallant old ex-Confederate.

JOHN SAM OWSLEY, JR.

THE most important finished legislation thus far at this session of Congress is the new militia law. A full century has elapsed since there was general and comprehensive legislation by Congress upon this subject. That new conditions demanded radical changes in the militia law has been conceded for many years, but Congress has approached the subject always with timidity because of the popular jealousy of strong military establishment. The purport of the bill is to unify the State militia in order to make it better serve State uses and a stronger and better nucleus and a rallying centre in National interest. It proceeds upon the wise doctrine that no executive authority is of value that has not the power behind it to enforce its decrees; that the liberties of the people largely reside in their organized ability to preserve them from domestic turbulence or foreign assault; that the people are better and safer in any form of government who have some training in the use of arms and orderly marching and moving; that peace is served by military provision, and that Washington was right when he made his celebrated declaration concerning the necessity and wisdom of a republic maintaining a well organized militia. The new law provides that details of regular officers are to serve with the militia of the State encampments. It provides for inspection annually of State military organizations by Federal officers and that whenever a State accepts the aid of the general government in the organization and outfitting of the National Guard, the latter must drill in camp at least five days in each year and assemble for drill 24 times in a year. To every militia officer who attends army schools and colleges the bill provides that they shall be given the pay, quarters and subsistence of regular officers of the same rank. Whenever State troops resolve to participate in any maneuvers or field instructions of regular troops, they will be given transportation, subsistence and the pay of State troops. The new law generally provides for closer relations between State and National troops, for the organization of the National Guard on the model of the regular army and for re-arming the State troops with arms corresponding to those used in the Federal service. It provides that the president shall fix the minimum number of men in each company, troop and battery, and it gives the president the right to call out the militia for nine months to repel invasion or suppress insurrection.

HEAVEN knows the pension laws are liberal enough now, but there are schemes for extending them or granting some special privilege to the veterans of the several wars. A service pension is now proposed and so-called veterans are begging Congress to enact such a law immediately. The law would require an additional expenditure annually of over $100,000,000. A bill was introduced the other day providing for the payment of a bounty of $100, together with an additional bounty of $50 to certain two-year men who served in the Civil War and who were mustered out before the expiration of their terms of enlistment, thus placing them outside the terms of the original bounty law. But the latest candidate for soldiers' support is Representative Marshall, of North Dakota, who has championed a bill to extend the franking to old soldiers. And so it goes. Under the existing law the old soldiers are entitled to preference in the making of appointments to the government service. They have homes furnished them free of cost by the government. They draw $140,000,000 a year out of the Federal treasury in pensions and, as Mr. Cannon said in a speech recently, the end is not yet. Insatiable boun-

THE treatment of Gen. J. C. Breckinridge by the president and the war department is proof of how they can stoop to small doings when a man has the courage to go against the ring when he was sure he was right. His promotion to major general with the stipulation that he retire in April when the age limit does expire until January 1906, shows how anxious the authorities were to get rid of a gallant officer who had rendered distinguished service to his country. It was attempted to legislate him out of the office of inspector general by abolishing it, but the general's friends prevented it, and the story that Shafter would turn over the army to him at Santiago and he refused to accept it because it was arranged for it to retreat, so angered the clique that it was resolved to have Gen. Breckinridge go at all hazards. It is a sorry story and one that does great discredit to the powers that be.

THIS is what grand and glorious old Admiral Winfield Scott Schley had to say before the Progressive Union at New Orleans the other day, which shows what a patriotic heart he has: "I will not trench upon unknown ground further than to give vent to my feeling of gratitude at the growth and development of our great country, which I have been permitted to know only in the last few years. Most of my life during the half century past has been spent on the outer confines of civilization. There is no discount on Jack's love of home and his flag and when he is at sea his dream is of his sweetheart, but his ship is his loyal love and his country is God's country. He is always ready, no matter how forlorn the hope, to lead and lay down his life. Behind the guns he is the peer of any marksman in the world. Therefore I say, all honor to the men behind the guns and the men before the furnace."

IN a speech at Louisville the other day this is what Gov. Bradley had to say about the assassination of Gov. Wm. Goebel: "The murder of William Goebel," he declared, "was the foulest crime in the annals of this Commonwealth. Would that I could wipe away that dark blot and burnish the spot where it fell bright again. Though I honestly believe that he was not elected Governor, still he was contesting in the proper way for that high office, and while in the midst of the contest was shot down by a dastardly assassin in the Capitol yard. He had been declared Governor by those in authority, and it was eminently proper that this reward should be offered for the apprehension and conviction of his murderers. There is not one honest man of my political conviction who does not want to see this case ferreted out to the bottom."

AN order has been issued by the post-office department for the withholding of the delivery of mail to any of the investment companies now under investigation in St. Louis. Now that the horse has been stolen the stable is to be locked. The money of thousands of persons having been lost through the free use of the mails, the pitiful remnant now in the mails is to be saved. Why did not the post office department act when the fraudulent character of these concerns was called to the attention of the officials? That's the way it did in Lexington when, if it had acted promptly, hundreds of thousands would have been saved to those who, many at least of them, were in no condition to lose it.

THIS AND THAT.

Gen. Charles C. Doolittle, a veteran of the Civil war, is dead at Toledo.

Atkinson College, a Negro school at Madisonville, was destroyed by fire.

Mrs. Helen C. Neagle, the oldest woman in Maine, died at the age of 106 years.

Z. E. Simmons, formerly well-known as a breeder of trotting horses, died at Lexington.

Harvard has 533 teachers; Columbia 504, each having one instructor to every 10 students.

A monument marking the spot where Gen. Lawton was killed was unveiled Sunday at San Mateo, P. I.

Fifty guests barely escaped with their lives while flames completely destroyed the Hotel Deveaux, in Toledo, Ohio.

Three white children and a Negro were drowned eight miles south of Tallahassee, Fla., as the result of a driver losing his way and getting into a pond.

Elijah Milton Watkins, aged 82, died Sunday at his home in Woodford county. He was a grandson of Elizabeth Clay-Watkins, the mother of Henry Clay.

Thomas S. Grundy, of Washington county, one of the most prominent livestock breeders in the State, and for years a well-known figure in politics, died Sunday.

Stockholders of the Standard Oil Co. will receive $20,000,000 in dividends next month. This will make a total of $328,000,000 paid by the corporation to stockholders direct within a period of 12 years.

A mob of 150 men, led by strikers, attacked the powerhouse of the Indiana Railway Company at South Bend, threw a watchman through a window and roughly handled two employees. A detail of police stopped the rioting.

POLITICAL.

For the nine State offices to be filled there are now out 31 candidates for democratic nomination.

Judge John Howard, for six terms Mayor of Prescott, Ariz., is dead at Converse, Ind., aged 88 years.

Judge Ira Julian, of Frankfort, has announced his candidacy for the democratic nomination for attorney general.

The Indiana House passed the bill appropriating $150,000 for a State exhibit at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

James A. Garfield, who was appointed by President Roosevelt as Commissioner of Corporations under the new Department of Commerce bill, is a son of the late President Garfield.

The democrats of the Seventh judicial district will hold a convention on April 15 at Russellville to nominate candidates for circuit judge and Commonwealth's attorney. A convention at the same time and place will nominate a candidate for State Senator for the Ninth Senatorial district.

The president has appointed Solicitor General John K. Richards to the vacancy on the Sixth Federal circuit bench. At the same time Judge W. R. Day was appointed to the United States supreme court to succeed Judge Shiras and Assistant Attorney General Henry M. Hoyt was appointed solicitor general to succeed Mr. Richards.

Senator-elect James B. McCreary is being wined, dined and feted as though he were already a member of that honorable body. Last night he was an especially invited guest at a dinner given by Representative Hitt, chairman of the House committee of Foreign Affairs, exclusively for the members of the Foreign Affairs committees of both Houses.—Washington Dispatch

LOCALS.

CRUSHED Oyster Shells for chickens at Craig & Hocker's.

ATTEND the sale of S. W. Givens at 1 P. M. Saturday, Feb. 28.

READ the real estate advertisements on our fourth page. You may find a farm that suits you.

WE have plenty of millet hay, good for cow feed, which we will sell cheap J. H. Baughman & Co.

ONLY four more days of winter remain, and as good old Bro. Barnes used to say, "praise the Lord" for it.

A FEW nice things in ready-made dress skirts to close at less than cost price. Come quick. J. P. Jones.

THE Warren Grizeby chapter, U. D. C., will meet with Mrs. J. C. Hayes at 2:30 this, Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. J. S. Rice, recording secretary.

THOSE knowing themselves indebted to this office for subscription or anything will please drop in to see us next Monday, court day, and settle.

The articles incorporating the Bill Posting Syndicate, at Lexington, of $100,000 capital, show that Mr. Louis H. Ramsey, who used to live here, heads the list with 5,400 paid up shares at $10 per share. We are glad to hear of Mr. Ramsey's good luck and hope he will be a multi-millionaire some day.

It is feared that the cold weather will be detrimental to fruit trees in this section, as many of them were budding and some were putting out leaves. H. F. Hillenmeyer, of Lexington, who is a nurseryman and gardener, says that his trees are uninjured, but that peach trees in the hollows will be injured.

OPEN SESSION.—At the Methodist church Sunday night there was an open session of the children's mission band of that church, with Mrs. T. D. Rauey presiding as president and Miss Anna Darst as secretary. The evening consisted of recitations, songs, reading, etc. It was an enjoyable affair and every little tot's heart was filled to overflowing.

CONTRACTS.—The fiscal court was in session Friday and Friday night and let contracts out for 1,200 rods of rock and gravel to be spread on the turnpikes. J. R. Beazley secured contracts for 549 rods of rock at $7.50 per rod. The gravel runs from $3.50 to $5 per rod. The fiscal court certainly is doing all it can towards giving the people good roads, and just as soon as the weather permits it, the pikes will all be put in first-class condition.

MARtha WASHINGTON SOCIAL.—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Baptist church gave a Martha Washington Social at the home of Rev. and Mrs. O. M. Huey Friday night. The evening's amusement consisted of recitations, reading, music, games, etc. Light refreshments were served. The proceeds were to be used in improving the parsonage. There were about 75 people present and Rev. and Mrs. Huey made every one feel that it was good to be there.

BIG FIRE.—A $6,000 fire occurred in A. P. Bruce's warehouse, near the depot, at Danville, in which C. P. Cecil, Jr., and A. P. Bruce were heavy losers.

The warehouse was burned to the ground, entailing a loss of $2,000, with no insurance. It was filled with agricultural implements belonging to C. P. Cecil, including 29 wagons and a large number of plows, harrows and other supplies. The loss on this merchandise was $4,000, with $1,500 insurance. One freight car standing on an adjoining switch was burned, and another loaded with farming machinery was also considerably damaged.

STOECKLER.—Xaver Stoeckler, aged about 55 years and one of the best known Germans of the Ottenheim section, died Friday morning about 7 o'clock of pneumonia. He was only sick about a week. Mr. Wm. Landgraf tells us. Mr. Stoeckler came to this country from Germany about 15 years ago and located near Ottenheim. He was a clever, hard-working, honest German and a man who attended to his own business strictly. He leaves a wife and eight children to mourn his loss. He was buried in the Ottenheim Catholic cemetery yesterday morning after services by Rev. Peter Brentner. Peace to his ashes.

CIRCUIT COURT.—Circuit court began yesterday but didn't last long. It was a legal holiday and after Judge Saufley had delivered a splendid charge to the grand jury, he adjourned court until this morning. The following gentlemen compose the grand jury: S. A. Middleton, foreman, Logan Bryant, J. F. Shaw, J. M. Bell, Garland Jones, Wm. Landgraf, Craig Gooch, J. D. Anderson, R. C. Hocker, Robert Nunnelley, Josh Wilson and John Baugh, Jr. The petit jury is as follows: E. T. Pence, S. E. Owsley, B. F. Ferrill, B. F. Goode, J. J. Moser, John Dinwiddie, Dave Scott, Samuel Reid, Pate King, H. J. Darst, N. W. Sampson, W. E. McCormack, C. A. Redd, Alex Traynor, P. E. Parrish, J. H. Pruitt, Uriah Albright, Dr. C. Fowler, D. R. MR. R. H. BRONAU tells us that on account of the inclement weather that he deferred the renting of his fine farm in Madison and will rent it privately if not sold, in the next two weeks.

CONGRESSMAN GILBERT writes us that he hasn't given up the fight for a re-establishment of the star route between Stanford and McKinney, but that he is putting in every link possible. We sincerely hope his efforts will not be in vain.

SATURDAY'S Louisville Post contained an excellent likeness of City Controller Samuel M. Wilhite, of Louisville, who, it says, is making the Falls City one of the best officials it ever had. It also says he signs his name 53,000 times a year, or an average of 148 times a day. His friends here are glad to hear this deserved compliment.

AN elegant informal tea was given last Wednesday afternoon by Mesdames H. S. Lytle and W. B. Penny, at their home on Lexington Avenue, in honor of their visitor, Miss Linn Lithgow, of Louisville. The color scheme, red, was carried out very prettily, the parlors and dining room being decorated with clusters of red tulips. Mrs. Penny, Mrs. Lytle and Miss Lithgow received the guests and the tea table was presided over by Mrs. Dave Logan. About 30 couples were present.—Advocate.

THE first operation in accordance with the method of Dr. Lorenz, the famous Austrian surgeon, ever performed in this country outside of the cities of New York and Chicago, was performed most successfully by Drs. McKee and Falconer at St. Joseph's Hospital, Lexington, Saturday. The patient was little George De Jarrett, aged 5½ years, the son of James De Jarrett, of Richmond. The operation was bloodless and was made to set right a displacement of the hip with which the boy was born. The work was very hard, not only on the patient, but also on the surgeons, who were thoroughly tired out as the result of their efforts.

The leg has to be moved in every direction until all the shortened muscles which have caused the deformity, are stretched to their proper length and then the bone is thrown into the socket with a snap that can be heard in the next room. Having never been used, the socket is too small for the bone and to enlarge same the leg is placed in a plaster cast for six months with the leg at right angles to the body. At the end of this time the cast will be removed and the boy will be as perfectly formed and as strong as any of his playmates.

—Lexington Democrat. The patient is a nephew of Mrs. J. B. Willis, of Crab Orchard and a cousin of Mr. T. C. Willis, of this place.

HON. ROBT. J. BRECKINRIDGE, of Danville, opened his campaign for the democratic nomination for governor at the court house here yesterday afternoon. A large crowd greeted the grand old man and listened attentively to his speech of an hour or more. He opened his address by saying that while he had been a democratic voter for 40 years he had never failed to support his party's nominees with his voice, his vote and his means, yet the party owed him nothing; he considered it an honor to belong to it and not because of any party indebtedness. The judge very clearly and forcibly showed that Gov. Beckham was not eligible to succeed himself and predicted that in the event of Beckham's victory there would be a contest brought up by his republican opponent and that he, Breckinridge, did not see how the appellate court could do otherwise than decide against Beckham; that Beckham exhibited displeasure when accused of building up a machine. He did not accuse the governor of this offense but people think of the old saw, "where there is so much smoke there's bound to be some fire." The judge said Beckham reflected somewhat upon the judges of the appellate court by awaiting the result of the races between Guffy and Settle and DuRelle and Barker, before announcing his candidacy, thinking perhaps that the political complexion of the court would aid him in case of a contest. His tribute to the impartiality of the present appellate tribunal, their freedom from partisan prejudice, their high resolve to decide "all questions without reference to party advantage" met with a hearty applause from every man in the audience. Judge Breckinridge closed his speech with a most eloquent and masterly appeal to the democracy of old Lincoln and from the ovation given him it was readily apparent that the gallant Confederate and true blue democrat will get the vote of the county. Here's hoping he will win.

"After my first baby was born I did not seem to regain my strength although the doctor gave me a tonic which he considered very superior, but instead of getting better I grew weaker every day. My husband insisted that I take Wine of Cardui for a week and see what it would do for me. I did take the medicine and was very grateful to find my strength and health slowly returning. In two weeks I was out of bed and in a month I was able to take up my usual duties. I am very enthusiastic in its praise."

Wine of Cardui reinforces the organs of generation for the ordeal of pregnancy and childbirth. It prevents miscarriage. No woman who takes Wine of Cardui need fear the coming of her child. If Mrs. Unrath had taken Wine of Cardui before her baby came she would not have been weakened as she was. Her rapid recovery should commend this great remedy to every expectant mother. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow.

SENATOR McCREEARY.

No man ever entered the United States Senate under happier auspices than does ex-Gov. James B. McCreary, whom the people of Kentucky have chosen to the upper branch of Congress, and who will on the 4th of next month take the place now occupied by Mr. Deboe. Gov. McCreary is stopping at the New Willard, and he is in the pink of condition physically, looking not a day older than he appeared when a member of the House.

Probably no man of the Blue Grass State ever enjoyed the good will and confidence of his people to a greater degree than the Senator-elect. As speaker of the Legislature, Governor, and Representative in Congress for 12 years, he always satisfied his countrymen, and when the Legislature named him for the Senate it was in response to the public demand.

"I had almost forgotten," said Gov. McCreary, "that my habitat henceforth will be at the north end of the Capitol, and from a sheer force of habit I took a green car yesterday morning, which landed me on the House side. But I got so many pleasant greetings from my former associates of the House that I was glad I had taken the wrong car."

"What do you think, Senator, of democratic prospects?"

"They are improving every day. By 1904 the party will be absolutely united. Business has lately carried us into several Southern States, and everywhere I went I found the democracy harmonious and eager to try conclusions with the opposition. We will get together and unite on some good man who will be acceptable not only to the South, but to the voters of New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, and other States where the party of yore got elective votes. I expect to see a democratic president elected in 1904"—Washington Post.

FRANCIS.—The Richmond Register suggests the name of David R. Francis, of St. Louis, for the democratic nomination for president in 1904. Mr. Francis is a native of Madison county and is a nephew of Mr. Sidney Rowland, of Danville. He is one of the most successful and widely known men West of the Mississippi river, having served as mayor of St. Louis and governor of Missouri. There is a great Missourian, says the Register, who is in character, experience, ability and availability in every way fully equipped for the presidency, and his nomination would satisfy all elements in the party and appeal powerfully to the business interests of the country. His name is David Rowland Francis and he was born and raised in Madison county.

Better Than Gold.

"I was troubled for several years with chronic indigestion and nervous debility," writes F. J. Green, of Lancaster, N. H. "No remedy helped me until I began using Electric Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicines I ever used. They have also kept my wife in excellent health for years. She says Electric Bitters are just splendid for female troubles; that they are a grand tonic and invigorator for weak, run down women. No other medicine can take its place in our family." Try them. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by all Druggists.

Unless the "Jim Crow" car bill before the Legislature is defeated, the Missouri Negroes will petition their patron saint, Teddy, to withdraw the government appropriation to the St. Louis Exposition. And yet a Kentucky republican chief justice has both judicially and judiciously declared the Jim Crow arrangement for both whites and blacks a good thing—Louisville Times.

If some energetic man would put up a coal yard at this place and keep on hand a good supply of coal, he could do a good business, as most Kirksville people get their supply here.

The cold snap took most of our people by surprise, as they were out of both coal and wood. About 20 wagons were on the streets Friday and Saturday, waiting to see if the evening train would bring a supply of coal.

Tendency of the Times.

The tendency of medical science is toward preventive measures. The best thought of the world is being given to the subject. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. It has been fully demonstrated that pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, can be prevented by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of influenza (grip), and it has been observed that this remedy counteracts any tendency of these diseases toward pneumonia. This has been fully proven in many thousands of cases in which this remedy has been used during the great prevalence of colds and grip in recent years, and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. Pneumonia often results from a slight cold when no danger is apprehended until it is suddenly discovered that there is fever and difficulty in breathing and pains in the chest, then it is announced that the patient has pneumonia. Be on the safe side and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the cold is contracted. It always cures. For sale by Craig & Rocker.

FRANCIS.—The Richmond Register suggests the name of David R. Francis, of St. Louis, for the democratic nomination for president in 1904. Mr. Francis is a native of Madison county and is a nephew of Mr. Sidney Rowland, of Danville. He is one of the most successful and widely known men West of the Mississippi river, having served as mayor of St. Louis and governor of Missouri. There is a great Missourian, says the Register, who is in character, experience, ability and availability in every way fully equipped for the presidency, and his nomination would satisfy all elements in the party and appeal powerfully to the business interests of the country.

At Lexington, the License Ordinance Committee has placed upon the list of taxable persons newspaper reporters. It is proposed to require every reporter to pay $10 a year license.
